STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

Bearce & Clifford have finally succeeded after a fortnight's protracted effort, working night and day, in laying the bottom courses in the last gap of the new Lewiston dam. It will now advance rapidly to completion, the chief difficulty to be overcome having been surmounted successfully.

R. E. Swain, West Leeds, has made and shipped the past year, two millions of dowels. The sticks are cut three feet long, and from one-fourth to three-fourths of an inch in diameter. He has also made forty-one thousand packing boxes for canned corn and cheese.

Col. Littlefield has resigned the office of Collector of Taxes in Auburn, and Mr. Eben G. Eveleth has been selected by the assessors to attend to the tax collection for the balance of the year. Col. Littlefield has collected about $72,000 of taxes and about $25,000 remain to be collected. Col. Littlefield is able to be out of doors daily, but found the work of collection too onerous for him.

Lewiston has an excellent institution in the Catholic Temperance Club, which has its rooms on Lisbon street. The first room one enters, is large and ample for the meetings, which occur weekly, as well as for the purposes of a reading room and place of social gathering, where an evening may be pleasantly passed, the best of current literature and games being provided for entertainment. The next room is the gymnasium, where athletics are the attraction. The aim of this association is to furnish something better for the young men than to loaf upon the street. It is a success and is winning hundreds of young men to habits of temperance.

Aroostook.

The starch manufacturers say there is less starch manufactured in the United States this year, than at any season during the past thirty years. The amount of starch manufactured in Aroostook this season, is estimated to be about one-quarter of that of last year.

Cumberland.

Monday, a man went to the house of Mrs. Patrick Feury, Portland, pretending to have silverware for sale. As quick as he gained admission to the house, however, he drew a revolver and was about to rob the premises when a man drove into the yard, and the thief hastily decamped.

Marcellus Prince, of Orr's Island, Harpswell, died Sunday, after three years' illness with consumption. The deceased was formerly one of the firm of Carney & Prince, fish dealers in Portland. He had just completed a large boarding house of thirty-two rooms. He leaves a widow and two children.

Edward Dyer, of Goose Island, off Mere Point, was brought before Judge Jordan, Monday, on complaint of Ernest Grover who charges Dyer with threatening to shoot him. From the evidence, it was shown that a great deal of feeling exists between the parties. The Judge did not consider the difendant a dangerous man, and ordered him discharged.

Monday morning, Mrs. Louise Mountfort, of West Falmouth, missed a pocketbook containing a sum of money. The property is believed to have been stolen. Mrs. Mountfort had come into the city and had gone to a bank to transact some business, when she discovered her loss.

The first ocean steamer of 1887-8 will leave Liverpool the 5th of November and will reach Portland the 13th. The indications are that the business will this year be greatly in excess of that of any former year. Already over one hundred carloads of bulk grain have come over the Grand Trunk, and every effort is being made to clear up the local freight before the rush of through freight sets in.

Mr. Kelsey, of Ryan & Kelsey, says the Portland Press, speaking of square rigged vessels says there were consigned to his firm alone, thirty-six square rigged vessels—ships and barks—and this could not be more than a quarter of those which had arrived here the past year. The total tonnage of these thirty-six vessels would be more than thirty thousand tons. He said that he could recall no year in which so many large ships had entered at this port. The South American trade had been especially large. These thirty-six vessels loaded with lumber for Rio Platte. Their cargoes amounted to not less than 24,000,000 feet of lumber valued at not less than $432,000.00. These thirty-six vessels must have disbursed in this port not less than $90,000,00, while the money paid out for labor, storage, etc., etc., bills on the lumber they took away, from the time it reached Portland until it was loaded on shipboard, would amount to $30,000.

Franklin.

A monster moose was recently killed near King Bartlett, By A. Douglass, Eustis. It required the fifth shot from Douglass' 38 calibre Winchester rifle to bring him down. The weight of the monster was 1500 pounds. The distance from the base of the skull to the tip of the nose, measured 27 inches, from the base to the tip of the horns or antlers, is 31½ inches, while the entire length of the horn, measuring along its course, is 3 feet 2 inches. The widest space in the palm of the horn reaches 7½ inches, and the ears measured 12½ inches. His height 7 feet.

Kennebec.

We understand, says the Waterville Mail, that the management of the Maine Central have in contemplation the erection of a new brick freight depot, near where the old one now stands, plans for which have been drafted. It is too early to give the particulars, but the work will probably be done next season. The tracks will probably be straightened, and many improvements made.

Oxford.

Mrs. Dr. Barnes, of Andover, in attempting to step from a barrel to a chair, recently, fell, striking the spine, causing a fracture and leaving her in a critical condition.

Piscataquis.

The towns of Dover and Foxcroft are just now rejoicing over their new water works, which will be completed in about two weeks. The towns will be supplied with thirty hydrants, and so arranged that the water can be taken from a reservoir of one million gallons, 182 feet above the level of the streets, or in case of need the water can be taken direct from the pumps at the dam across Piscataquis river, a mile above the village. It will give an impetus to business in the two towns, far beyond anything which has ever been done. In fact it has already given a great "boom" to building, and more than twenty-five houses and tenements have been added during the autumn, and over the mill is about for more and it is said that during the past seven years more than three hundred thousand dollars has been expended in buildings of various kinds, in these two villages. The people of Dover and Foxcroft are to be congratulated upon their prosperity.

Waldo.

Hon. I. C. Libby, of Burnham, shipped fifteen cars of cattle and sheep to Brighton, Monday.

The October meeting of Waldo County Grange was held with Northern Light Grange, Monroe, on Thursday, the 25th. Nine granges in Waldo County, and three in other counties were represented. The Committee on Time, Place and Programme reported: Time, Nov. 29; place, with Northern Light Grange, Winterport.

Mr. William Henry Slyvester, of Lincolnville, has a jack-knife which he has owned over sixty years, and which is now in good order. The knife was bought by him when he was fifteen years of age, and has been in use almost constantly since. It was carried by him to California and while there was used by him for skinning over 200 deer, besides other game. We doubt if there is another piece of cutlery in the State that has seen as much service as this one.

The Belfast City Press says there is talk of forming a stock company here to purchase the Windsor Hotel property, move back the old house and build a new and modern hotel hotel on the lot. Mr. Williston Grinnel, of Searsport, is talked of for landlord.

The farm buildings of Mr. Edmund Ames, of North Belfast, were burned, Saturday night, together with all their contents except live stock. When Mr. Ames reached the barn to get out his cattle, the hay was on fire, but the stock was all got out safely. There was some insurance on the buildings. The place was valued at about $3,000.

York.

A party of gunners, from Biddeford, in three boats were on the river, Monday, when John Haley fired at some birds, one of the shot striking Lorenzo Norwood near the base of the brain.

The house of James F. Walker, Saco, was entered, Saturday night, by unknown parties supposed to be tramps, and relieved of $11 in cash, a few articles of clothing and a lot of cold victuals.

Short Cuts.

A town named Soonover has been started in Colorado.

A Boston man offers to wager that he can eat 125 quails in fifty consecutive days.

The property of Trinity Church, New York city, is said to be worth $100,000,000.

Mme. Christine Nilsson has purchased a house on the Place Vendome, Paris, opposite the Bristol hotel.

Admiral Porter, at Newport, spends much time sailing catboats, a diversion of which he is very fond.

Kansas abounds in natural gas. There are one hundred and thirteen companies engaged in developing it.

More than fifty per cent. of the graduates of the Michigan College have become farmers, according to President Willits.

King Kalakaua has invited the yachtsmen of San Francisco to come and celebrate his fiftieth birthday on November 16.

The Board of Trade, of Bradford, N. Y., offer to give a fully equipped furniture factory, worth $25,000, to the right kind of a man.

Mr. Rider Haggard, who is evidently endeavoring to rival Mr. Marion Crawford in literary industry, has two new novels nearly completed.

Professor Richard A. Proctor, the well-known astronomer and writer, left St. Joseph, Mo., last week, with his family for his new home in Florida.

The house selected by Postmaster-General Vilas for his Washington home is in a fashionable quarter, adjoining Senator Sherman's. He paid $35,000 for it.

Indianapolis shows good spirit and good pluck in bringing up the rear of the baseball column of 1887. She is looking around for a team that will get there next year.

The Comtesse de Paris shot two hundred and twenty-eight rabbits to her own gun in three days during her visit to Lord and Lady Coventry at Croome Court, Worcestershire.

An Iowa physician reports to the Board of Health the death of a child from "colery and phantom." He was educated, not in the old school, but before any school had been started.

A silver haired patron of the Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York, who has lived there for twenty-five years, claims that in that time his lodging and meals have cost him $700,000.

Dr. Bulsson, of Paris, claims to cure hydrophobia by hot baths often repeated. He makes the patient remain continually in a hot room, and the baths are made as hot as 142 degrees.

The death has been recorded of Mr. George Sim, the Scotch antiquary. His collection of Greek and Roman coins, more than 13,000 in number, is perhaps the finest in the world.

An exchange says: "A literary lyceum in a Western town is wrestling over the question: 'Is the proper definition of an editor a man who puts things in a paper or a man who keeps things out?'"

An investigation of the accounts of a recently failed Wall street firm showed that in five years the two partners had overdrawn their accounts $204,800. Of this, over $130,000 was lost, but the junior partner had lived at the rate of $18,000 a year.

When Lieutenant Foulke of the United States navy went to Japan some years ago, he was nursed through a dangerous illness by a lovely Japanese girl, with whom he fell in love. He taught her English; she taught him Japanese; and when he comes home, as he soon will, he will bring her as his wife. This bit of romance is a realization in actual life of E. H. House's Japanese story just finished in Scribner's Magazine.

The second largest bar of bullion ever melted in the United States Assay Office at Helena, Montana, was handled September 17 by Melter Meyendorf. It came from the Jay Gould mine, weighed 2,500 ounces, was a little over 800 fine in gold and was worth about $27,000. The largest bar of gold ever seen in the world was worth about $140,000 and was the property of the North Bloomfield Hydraulic mine, Nevada County, Cal.

A distinguished lady who is now in New York, is Mrs. Lopez, wife of the President of Venezuela. She arrived last Tuesday on the steamer Philadelphia, and was met at quarantine by a revenue cutter on board of which were the Venezuelan minister, the consul-general and vice-consul of New York, the Venezuelan consul at Boston and others. Mrs. Lopez has come to New York for medical advice and will remain until January.

Much indignation is expressed in Newport at the Rev. John Day's being almost driven to resign the pastorate of the Channing Memorial Church. The only charge against him was that he had wedded a divorced woman. Her character was above suspicion, and it was well known that she had obtained a divorce from her husband for exceptionally strong cause; yet her marriage with Mr. Day was clamored against by many, with the result that he now leaves Newport for a church at Ithaca, N. Y.

It has been definitely ascertained by scientific triangulation that Mount Wrangel is at least 1,000 feet higher than any other peak in North America, and Mount St. Elias, a little south of it, is second highest. So there is not likely to be any more wrangling over that question.

Signor Crispi, the Italian premier, is an indefatigable worker. He has been known, after a whole day's fatiguing labor in court at Palermo, to take a steamer and arrive at Naples in time to discuss an important case there next morning; then go by train to Rome and make next day a powerful speech on some great subject before Parliament; and then take a train for Venice, where the next day he would sit as Judge in the court of marine arbitration.

Miss Mary Davies and Miss Maggie Purvis, of Cardiff, (sopranos); Miss Annie Hopes of Carnarvon, and Miss Annie Davies, of Cardiff (contraltos), together with four gentlemen singers, have started for America for a six months' tour in the United States and Canada as a Welsh double quartette party. They are accompanied by Mr. W. T. Barker as harpist, both soloist and accompanist. Three of the lady vocalists, the Misses Davies and Miss Purvis, are members of the Cardiff Blue Ribbon Choir.

Western towns which have a boom on appreciate the power of the press. The people of Tucson, Arizona, buy 8,000 copies of their local paper every month for the purpose of sending it abroad, and in addition pay it $200 a month for special "write-ups." The town of Lamar, Colorado, recently paid the local paper $1,500 for a "write-up," and the citizens of Fort Scott, Kansas, have just spent $7,000 in advertising the town. Hutchinson, Kansas, claims to give its local paper a bonus of $10,000 a year for remaining alive and kicking, while Newton, Kansas, pays its paper $15,000 a year. There is nothing at all improper in this, as the money is paid for legitimate advertising.

The Big Bend Tunnel, by which Feather River, in California, is to be turned from its course, is 12,000 feet long 12 feet wide and 16 feet high. It is in solid rock most of the way, and cost nearly $1,000,000. The new channel for the river is about four miles long, while the old channel is 14 in length. The object to obtain gold lying in the bed of the river at this point. The prospects for a rich return are said to be excellent, deposits of $100 to $300 worth of gold being found in small hollows. Work, however, can proceed only in the dry season, from about April through November, for during the winter months the river becomes a torrent that no tunnel could confine. Next April a large force of men will be set at work.

Statistics published in the North China Herald strongly support the ancient estimates of the population of China. It appears that the authorities at Pekin have recently taken a census for taxing purposes, and that the village bailiffs, whose business it is to understate the figures, return the population at 318,383,560. Five Provinces are omitted, and their population, as recorded in the last census, brings the total up to 362,000,000. Even this figure is independent of the population of Thibet, Kashgar, Ili and Corea; and the total number of souls ruled by the Emperor of China, therefore, exceeds 400,000,000, and still displays a tendency to increase. As the population of India exceeds 250,000,000, the Indians and Chinese together constitute more than half the entire human race.

The aurora on the Yukon River in Alaska, during the winter months, is said to be very brilliant and remarkably beautiful. It commences in the early fall, and lasts, with more or less brilliancy, throughout the long Arctic winter. It generally commences at the setting of the sun, though in midwinter it has at times been so bright that it was visible at noon while the sun was shining brightly. The rays of light first shoot forth with a quick, quivering motion, are then gathered and form a great arch of fire spanning the heavens. It glows for an instant like a girdle of burnished gold; then, unfolding, great curtains of light drop forth. These royal mantles, of bright orange, green, pink, rose, yellow and crimson, are suspended and waved between heaven and earth as with an invisible hand, and form a spectacle of extraordinary power.

The Saxons are a very polite people, so very polite that they not unfrequently bring down ridicule upon themselves. It used to be told in Dresden that a stranger in that city was one day crossing the great bridge that spans the Elbe, and asked a native to be directed to a certain church which he wished to find. "Really, my dear sir," said the Dresdener, bowing low, "I grieve to say it, but I cannot tell you." The stranger passed on, a little surprised at this voluble answer to a simple question. He had proceeded but a few rods when he heard footsteps behind him, and, turning, saw the same man running to catch up with him. In a moment his pursuer was by his side, his breath nearly gone, but with enough left to say: "My dear sir, you asked me how you could find the church, and it pained me to have to say I did not know. Just now I met my brother and asked him, but I am grieved to say that he did not know either."

Mr. Thomas' Marriage.

The Stockholm newspapers of October 11th and 12th, contained extensive notices of the wedding of Hon. W. W. Thomas, Jr., and Dagmar Tornebladh, of Stockholm.

The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock on October 11th, but long before that hour the extensive park in which stands the ancient church of Maria Magdalena, was filled with an eager multitude, and the exertions of a special detail of police were required to enable the carriages of the bridal party to force the way through the crowd. The church was filled to overflowing. The choir and a portion of the nave were occupied by invited guests to the number of four hundred and fifty, all in full dress. Among them were the chief members of the Diplomatic Corps, the Swedish Cabinet, officers of the army and navy, and many of the most brilliant ladies of the Swedish court. The altar and choir were decorated with choice flowers and adorned with luxuriant tropical plants.

At 2 o'clock the organ played the wedding march and the bridal procession entered through the main portal and passed up the nave. First came the bride led by her father, Dagmar Tornebladh, Knight and Nobleman, followed by six bridesmaids and groomsmen, four of the latter officers of the Swedish army in full uniform. Mr Thomas entered from the sacristy near the left transept. He was accompanied by the Hon. Rufus Magee, the present American minister at Stockholm. Meeting the bridal procession in the choir, Mr. Thomas received his bride from her father, and passed on with her to the altar, where the bridesmaids and groomsmen formed in line behind them across the church.

The bride was dressed in a costume of white satin, with a court train, dotted with clusters of orange blossoms. In her hand she bare a large bouquet of orange buds. On her head she bore a crown of orange blossoms and myrtle, and from the crown of her long bridal veil, the tulle swept the floor. Now a psalm was sung and the pastor, Rev. J. A. Sjostrand, spoke feelingly to the pair, taking for the theme the words of Ruth, "Where thou goest I will go, and where thou abidest I will abide. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." As couple were then wedded according to the unyoking ritual of the Swedish church.

The psalm was now sung, when the newly wedded pair turning from the altar, received the heartiest congratulations from their many friends.

At three o'clock the bridal party partook of a sumptuous wedding breakfast at the residence of the bride's father on St. Paul street, and at six o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left Stockholm on the evening train for Copenhagen. The Great Central Railway station was filled with their friends who gave three hearty cheers as the train rolled out of the station.

The wedding journey will be to Copenhagen, Berlin, Cologne, the Rhine, Paris, London, Liverpool, thence November 8th across the Atlantic to New York and Portland.

Obituary.

CAPT. JAMES TREAT.

Capt. James Treat died at his home in Frankfort, Saturday evening, the 29th inst., after a severe illness of one month. He had been slightly troubled with diabetes for the past six years, and had worked so hard during the summer he aggravated it, and on the 23d of last month he was obliged to take his bed. This, with his age, superinduced a complication of complaints, which caused his demise as aforesaid. The last two weeks he was a great sufferer. He was the son of Jonathan and Deborah Treat, and was born in Frankfort December 8th, 1819, and was, therefore, 67 years, 10 months and 14 days old at the time of his decease. When but sixteen years old he commenced a seafaring life, and at the age of eighteen he was master of a small schooner, and in a short time subsequent, was master of the brigs "Benjamin" and "Alpine," (the last named vessel for ten years or more) and was engaged in the West India trade, and was a very successful shipmaster. In 1853 he formed a copartnership with his oldest brother, William, under the firm name of Treat & Co., and as the head of said firm commenced business in Frankfort, now Winterport. Here they did an enormous business, averaging over one-half million dollars annually, building vessels, manufacturing cooperage, exporting lumber, and sugar box and hogshead shooks, molasses hogshead shooks, and importing sugar, molasses, salt, hides and wool. They were the largest importers of sugar and molasses in Eastern Maine for many years, and were at one time largely engaged in the South American trade. In 1863 the firm purchased some fifteen acres of land at Dartmouth, opposite Halifax, Nova Scotia, and immediately commenced on the foundation for a large sugar refinery, and the enormous expenditures here caused the failure of the firm in 1867, since which time Capt. Treat has not been in active business.

He married July 22d, 1872, Annie Mary Kidley, daughter of Thos. Kidley, who was a native of Clifton, England, and she survives him. The funeral services were held at his late residence in this place, last Tuesday, at two o'clock P. M., the Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Brewer, officiating. The remains were interred in the family lot in the Winterport cemetery. Here in this lot now sleep the four brothers, William, George, Henry, and the subject of this notice, who were directly and indirectly associated in business together for more than a quarter of a century, and I trust in death they are reunited.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you have obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges from head and throat, sometimes profuse, acrid and watery, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid and offensive; dull, heavy headache most of the time, with occasional "splitting headaches;" are your eyes weak, watery or inflamed; is there ringing in the ears, with more or less deafness; do you have to hack, cough and gag, in your efforts to clear your throat in the morning; do you expectorate offensive matter, scabs from ulcers, perhaps tinged with blood; is your voice changed and is there a "nasal twang" to it; is your breath offensive; are your senses of taste and smell impaired? If you have all or any considerable number of these symptoms you are suffering from that most common and most dangerous of maladies—chronic nasal catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Sage's Catarrh remedy, which is sold by druggists at only 50 cents, will cure it. The manufacturers of this wonderful remedy offer, in good faith, $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure.

Purify Your Blood

Your blood may be full of impurities, but Hood's Sarsaparilla will thoroughly cleanse, enrich, and vitalize it. The most severe cases of scrofula, salt rheum, boils, pimples, etc., yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It also cures catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, kidney and liver complaints, sharpens the appetite, and builds up the whole system. Give it a trial now.

"I suffered with catarrh fifteen years. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I am not troubled any with catarrh, and my general health is much better than for years." I. W. LILLIS, Postal Clerk Chicago & St. Louis Railroad.

That Tired Feeling Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely removes that tired feeling and gives new life and strength to the whole body. "I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon felt like a different person. That extreme tired feeling has gone, my appetite returned and it toned me up generally." CLARA W. PITTERS, Shirley, Mass.

"I was afflicted with rheumatism twenty years. Previous to last I found no relief, but grew worse and at one time was almost helpless. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me more good than all the other medicines I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley Village, Mass.

STATE OF MAINE.

COUNTY OF PENOBSCOT.
To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot:

The undersigned, Sprague Adams and James Adams, both of Bangor in said County, co-partners under the name of S. & J. Adams, and Edwin Belden of Prentiss in said County, executors of William Shaw, late of Boston in the State of Massachusetts, deceased, respectfully represent, that said deceased died on the 31st day of August, A. D. 1882, in estate, seized and possessed of personal estate in said County, exceeding twenty dollars in value, which ought to be administered according to law; that said deceased died having real estate to said County of more than twenty dollars in value and owing debts to more than the amount of twenty dollars which are still unpaid, that your petitioners are and have been for more than ten years, residents and citizens of said County, that the said S. & J. Adams, as executors as aforesaid, hold claims against the estate of said Shaw to the amount of more than twenty dollars, to wit: to the amount of many thousand dollars, and that the said Belden as such executor has duly filed against said estate to the amount of many hundred dollars, which are unpaid; that Walter D. Shaw, son of said deceased, upon his own petition at the December Term of the Probate Court for said County, 1882, was appointed administrator of said estate of said deceased, but refused and still refuses to accept the trust or to give the bond as required by law.

Wherefore your petitioners pray that the administration of said estate may be granted to Elliot Walker, of Newport in said County he being over twenty-one years of age and suitably qualified for the trust.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1887.

Twenty five Republican clerks in the New York Custom House have been marked for discharge This last batch of 25 makes 60 Republicans in all who have been recommended for removal since the Saratoga convention And still the cry of civil service reform rolls on

The effort of the Democratic organs to break the force of General Jackson's extraordinary speech at Macon by calling him a crank proves a little too much It merely brings into larger prominence the fact that Jackson was not so much of a crank but that President Cleveland appointed him Minister to Mexico

It is reported that Representative Randall has been taking very great interest in the contest of Thobe against Carlisle He examined the brief and affidavits and stated to a prominent attorney afterwards that he regarded the argument as exceedingly strong, and that the case might give Mr Carlisle a great deal of trouble.

At a Republican meeting in New York, the other evening, Col Fred Grant, the Republican candidate for Secretary of State, told this characteristic anecdote of his father "My father," said he, "was riding some three years ago through a beautiful part of the country He had his back to the horses, and when some one asked how he was enjoying the scenery, said he was taking a Democratic view of it—seeing nothing until it was past

Congressman Campbell, of Ohio, who is now in Washington says of the Democratic canvass in his State

I won't say that we will carry the State, and I won't say that we will not, but we are no discouraged"

When a Democratic Congressman is thus non-committal it is pretty good evidence that the current is against him. Mr Campbell may or may not be discouraged but from his own words it is very evident that he is not particularly enthusiastic.

The Supreme Court of the United States has sustained the decision of the lower Court and the Chicago Anarchists will have to pay the penalty of their deeds on the gallows one week from next Friday Some of the friends of the condemned men entertain the hope that the Governor will commute their sentence but this is extremely improbable The men were given a fair trial and have exhausted every step known to the law to evade the extreme penalty of their offense until at last the highest tribunal has decided against them They were guilty of murder of the most brutal and unexcusable character and nothing now remains but for the law to take its course

What a touching spectacle that was at Cleveland when, after Gov Gordon had been introduced by Gen Morgan, who said that the Stars and Stripes was the only flag that could henceforth wave over North and South the ex Confederate ostentatiously rushed forth and kissed Gen Morgan directly on the mouth One would hardly imagine that this was the same Gov Gordon who took a hand in the wild demonstration of applause that followed the Macon speech of Gen Jackson, who proclaimed Abraham Lincoln a usurper and Jeff Davis the rightful President There was also a kissing incident on that day, but it was not the Stars and Stripes that received this manifestation of love, but the treason stained emblem of rebellion Neither did the Stars and Stripes figure at all in the Macon reunion, but the flag that waved on that occasion was the flag under which the Confederate forces sought to destroy the Government The Cleveland incident was no doubt very affecting but the Macon incident discounts it

The Boston Herald is troubled at the lack of "ideas" in the Ohio campaign The Herald's conception of a real, live burning issue is an indorsement of Grover Cleveland as a reformer The tariff, finances and an honest ballot are of minor consideration as compared with personal adulation of Cleveland Ex Senator Thurman makes a speech and kills that the Mugwump sees in it is the reference to Cleveland, a platform is adopted and the only comment of the Mugwump editor is directed to the one plank referring to the President and the convention is indorsed or rebuked according to the warmth or coldness of that plank Cleveland is their sole issue and in their blind partisanship they follow him even to the extent of dancing to the music of the spoilsman That style of campaign may do for the Mugwumps, but it will not go down with the honest voter who desires to hear something besides the monotonous harping of reform that has no existence save in imagination

Reports frequently come from the wild lumber regions of Michigan and Wisconsin concerning the terrible dens of infamy where young girls are detained as close prisoners The victims are either kidnapped outright or inveigled from their homes under the pretense of securing employment and once within these brothels escape is rendered almost impossible One of the unfortunate victims, however, succeeded in getting back among her friends recently and the story she tells is a sorry one indeed It has reached the ears of Gov Rusk who has written a sharp letter to the county officers directing them to put a stop to this outrageous evil at once The outlaw proprietors of these dance houses have located at points difficult of access, but the officers should hunt them to the ground and not cease their efforts until these fiends in human form are safely lodged behind walls much stronger than those within which they have detained their helpless victims Gov Rusk is the terror of evil doers when aroused and now that he has taken the matter in hand we hope for a vigorous rooting out of this disgrace to civilization

Mrs. James Brown Potter.

[New York Tribune]

Mrs Cora Potter came forward last night at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, and in the presence of a numerous and fashionable audience made her first American appearance as a member of the regular dramatic profession. She was received with that kindness which is the invariable custom of the American audience—an audience always wishful that every essayist in public life may succeed who, prompted by worthy ambition, makes an earnest effort in a good field The local sentiment toward Mrs Potter, furthermore, has all along been generally propitious It was not surprising, accordingly, that her first entrance upon the scene should have been hailed with a prodigious outburst of applause, that plaudits were often given to her in the course of the ensuing representation, and that her audience endeavored by every means within its power to signify for this beginner the cordiality of a sincere welcome and the enthusiasm of fervent good wishes

Mrs Potter, considering her inadequate training and brief experience, carried herself in these emergencies with self control and, in the lighter scenes, with a good assumption of sincerity well calculated under appropriate circumstances to create and maintain a theatrical illusion She is a slender, graceful lady, with a pretty face, a piquant manner, good taste in costly apparel, and evident proficiency in the refined manner and usages of gentle life Her strength, at present, is wholly in her sweetness She was at her best in the expression of woman's tender pity for wretchedness and woe. As soon as that mood changed and there came a demand for power, neither her heart her imagination nor her voice proved adequate to the task A little later, when the mood became that of amorous tenderness, reluctantly submissive to moral restraints, she was alternately effusive and conventional She has an abundance of sweetness and of sentiment, but neither passion, intellectual dignity nor moral grandeur At the climax of the piece, which is freighted with "Faustine's" delirium of despair and horror, she was trivial

Of misery, or even of sorrow, she knows literally nothing Her excitement, radiating from the surface and not from the centre produces the effect not of emotion but of fuss She sacrificed completely the stirring moment, at the end of act second (the only stirring moment in the play) by a general collapse—at the very instant when a good actress would have filled the picture by keeping the pose In such a case as this the observer—who is distinctly asked for judgment on the essential question of fact—must consider not only what is done but what is signified, and the thing signified here is, most unmistakably, a novice floundering far beyond her depth It may seem an ungracious word to say but it is a word that ought to be said Even as the sincere artist does not exercise his art merely to make an exhibition of his own dexterity, but rather to communicate to others the ennobling effect of beauty, so the sincere critical judge does not weigh and estimate an artistic work merely with a view to minister to the vanity of the artist, but rather to recognize, to honor, and if possible to transmit his message Mrs Potter brings no message Her effort begins and ends with personal ebullition It is an experiment If it should end in teaching this lady what it means to be an actress and in enabling her to advance in her profession, it will end well

[From the World]

Mrs Potter made her appearance in the second act, attired in a snow white dress She was received with friendly acclamations and encouraging plaudits She is a pretty woman, with a fragile and by no means a sensuous figure, an intelligent face and a head of beautiful bronze hair It cannot be said that she is graceful or fascinating in action, but she is ladylike For at least one minute she stood meekly bowing while her audience made an inventory of her physical charms She is neither as robust nor as tall as Langtry, but she has a soft, womanly charm of fidelity that is not seen in Langtry's vital beauty, and she was dressed in a simple luxuriance that caught the eye Of her acting it is necessary to say that its merits did not appear in this play She is not called upon to do anything in particular, and she did it with a perfunctoriness of propriety as far as possible from the assigned standard of professional acting Her first opportunity was in the confession of her love for the sculptor It was an emotional opportunity if nothing else but Mrs Potter did no betray any emotion

It is true enough, the situation does not call for anything but platitudes and sentimentality But even platitudes and sentimentality can be redeemed by a strong, fervent personality Mrs Potter did not bring that necessary force to the work She was simply charming to the eye She did not betray one scintilla of dramatic talent in the best scene that fell to her She posed and recited Her declamation was not excellent her feeling was not apparent and her whole manner was self-conscious and artificial She looked indeed like an amateur as she was, superbly dressed, but incapable of giving form or voice to the emotions which the playwright had weakly furnished

The assemblage, which had sat through two acts waiting for something like a crisis, came to this scene in the studio with something like genteel commiseration Mrs Potter utterly failed as the representative of an amatory passion to rouse any other feeling than one of disappointment She was constricted in action and monotonous in speech Her voice is a rich and mellow one, but she does not know what to do with it Her accent was misplaced, her articulation was indistinct, her tones were without feeling.

But she posed beautifully, and got off the stage successfully

[From the Herald]

It is almost unnecessary to say that Mrs Potter looked like one born to fill the social station of a Faustine de Bressier. It seems also equally unnecessary to state that she was refined She looked very beautiful, particularly so in the third act Her voice is of most agreeable quality and in the lighter scenes she had many a dainty little charm of manner which endeared her to her audience. Her acting during the confession of love made to her, with its true simulation of feminine emotion, and her subsequent avowal that she loved in return, were remarkably true to nature and artistically likewise, by their refinement and lack of artifice, were worthy of the highest commendation. Her farewell to her lover after this mutual confession was so picturesque and natural that it brought applause which indicated a desire for her to return to the scene, a desire which, for the effect of the situation, the lady is to be commended for not gratifying.

Mrs. Potter, in the fourth and last act, where she sees her happiness slipping from her grasp, was indeed powerful, and she and Mr. Bellew, the Jacques Rosny of the evening, carried the excellent scene through with great success. If the lady will give more variety to her delivery, for at times she was distress ngly monotonous, she will make an even better impression than she did last night. She also was at times unable to show by the expression of her face her emotions.

Though graceful in pose and often so in gesture she lacks somewhat in simplicity in all she does. Many little touches, excellent in themselves, did not always form a coherent artistic whole.

MAINE NEWS.

BAD BLAZE IN WINTHROP.

Whitman's Agricultura Works Burned.

The Whole Village Narrowly Escapes.

WINTHROP, Nov. 2. An alarm of fire ...ounded soon after 12 o'clock from the ...ortheast section of this village, originated in W. E. Whitman's agricultural ...ks in the southern end of the building ...here the engine room is located, rapidly ...reading over the entire building. Very ...on the residence of Augustus Thompson, ...s Main stream, upon which the Whitman works are located, were on ...re also the residence of E. M. Clark, ...e far away, and many other other resi...ces in different parts of the village, some ...e buildings soon being on fire.

Dwellers on Mechanics' Row

...ere in close proximity to Whitman's works, inhabited largely by French ...operatives and their families of furni...e and household goods. The mills of ...e Winthrop Mills Co. are situated on the ...ain street just above, and at one time ...ere in great danger and the buildings ...ere seriously threatened. Stores on the ...ast side of Main street were many of ...em saved on the roof; also the boot ...d shoe factory of Col. C. A. Wing. Traders ...ere removing their goods and getting in ...adiness for the worst. At one time ...ere was a lurid glare in great clouds, borne ...ortheasterly by the wind, over nearly ...e whole of the village, sparks being ...ried

Lines Reached More than a Mile Away.

...Within one half hour after the fire ...roke out the business part of the village must go, and most certainly it ...ould have been for the fire department of the town which did valuable ...ork as the buildings were very dry ...nd in just the condition for a terrible ...onflagration. It is a terrible blow to the ...ge and careful scare besides, but the ...ople are considering themselves very fortunate that ...Whitman's Agricultural ...orks were not established here, ...s he would have left the country. The building ...f this manufactory were burned ...wo years ago last June. They were rebuilt ...nd given to a stock company and ...ere run by W. E. Whitman. The buildings

Are Entirely Consumed

...The insurance on stock holdings is $6,000; ...on the buildings $3,000 to Mr. Whitman ...and several products and stock cannot ...be insured at this time, but must be very ...heavy, as the stock here is very complicated and costly. His loss is not more ...than covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. Some think ...it caught in the boiler room, others ...that it caught in the shavings outside ...of the building, but Mr. Whitman says ...there was no fire of any kind in the ...building, and his opinion was incendiary. ...A telegram to Boston was telegraphed for ...at 2 o'clock and a reply came by special train at 3 o'clock, but the fire was under control ...before that time. At this hour the ...firemen are pouring on the smoking ruins ...which are still hot.

The Cause Still a Mystery

...The excitement has now settled down ...to its usual business activity after the big ...fire, and no one from such a terrible ...disaster as threatened it this ...day. Everybody are congratulating ...themselves that the business portion of the ...village was saved. The cause of the fire ...is still a subject of various opinions are ...being expressed regarding it. It is a ...sad blow to the workmen, many of ...whom are families and homes here, be...sides a good number lost their tools in the ...fire. Just this afternoon George C. ...Bean, a young man twenty years of ...age was

Arrested for Setting the Fire

...of the shops, but he proved an alibi and was released after a hearing. For a month ...past a watchman at Whitman's agricultural works out was discharged Monday and for some reason ...suspected of setting fire to them by Mr. Whitman, but he succeeded in proving where he was ...Wednesday afternoon, which caused his ...release. It is uncertain at this time whether ...or not he will be rebuilt or not.

HON. J. E. WASHBURNE'S WILL.

How His Estate is Distributed

...PORTLAND, Nov. 2. The will of the late Hon. E. Washburne is probated. He left property worth $850,000. Among the bequests are: To the Universalist church ...of which Lawrence Mc., $500; $200 ...each to the nephews John and Robert, of ...Hermon, Me.; $10,000 to the Newsboys' ...Home; congressional desk and chair to ...Bowdoin; Hesperidean; Oxford Palace, at ...Norway, Me., to his son Pitt; $2000 to each of the sons to Bertie Hager, son ...of the late Hannah, public and private documents, printings, books, etc., to his son ...Hempstead; $500,000 in trust for the benefit of his sons Pitt and Elihu.

MAINE VESSELS.

A Bucksport Vessel Total y Wrecked.

...WELLFLEET, Mass., Nov. 2. The schooner ...William H. Barnes, of Bucksport, Me., ...from Boston lumber laden, came ashore last night two miles north of Nauset light, Eastham, and became a total wreck.

A Winterport Vessel Towed Into Boston.

...BOSTON, Nov. 2. Capt. Brady, of the schooner Acadia, from St. John, reports that on Tuesday noon he passed an American schooner on her beam ends with four men on the wreck. He could not aid her as his own vessel had sprung a leak and the crew were all at the pumps. The schooner I. M. Stewart, of Winterport, Me., Capt. Roberts, from Bowdoinham, Me., with lumber, arrived at Boston to-day in tow, water logged. She reports having sprung a leak Saturday after leaving Bowdoinham. This is probably the vessel seen by Capt. Brady of the Acadia.

A Machias Schooner Loses Anchors and Chains.

...NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 3. United States steamer Verbena arrived and towed into Vineyard Haven three masted schooner Onita, Captain Clark, with coal, of Machias, Maine, from Philadelphia for Portland. The schooner lost her anchors and chains off Bass River.

An Abandoned Ellsworth Schooner Towed In.

...ROCKPORT, Mass., Nov. 2. The waterlogged and abandoned schooner C. M. Branscombe, of Ellsworth, Maine, lumber laden, was towed into Lanesville by tug Jetty this afternoon. She was found near Plumb Island, on her beam ends, with deck load gone and all sails blown away except the main fb.

FROM LEWISTON.

Death of E. F. Packard, Esq.

LEWISTON, Nov. 2. E. F. Packard, of Auburn, died of heart disease to-day, aged sixty-two. He was President of the First National Bank of Lewiston, and the Androscoggin County Savings Bank. After leaving Bowdoin College he engaged in shoe manufacturing, which he successfully prosecuted in connection with the late J. H. Rouk for thirty-five years. He was one of the wealthiest and best known business men in this county and was held in universal esteem. Ill health prevented his engaging in active business for two or three years past.

FROM SACO.

Dredging in Saco River.

SACO, Nov. 2. Hamilton & Sawyer, of Portland, have finished the Government contract of dredging Saco river three miles from the dock and began work near the wharves to-day. About 17,000 yards of dredging will be done there.

Capt. Thomas Symonds, of Leominster, Mass., who is removing the ledge between the Sister Islands, will complete the contract about in two weeks and his crew will be engaged to assist the Portland parties in dredging near the wharves. It is doubtful if the work can all be finished before the river closes.

FROM ROCKLAND.

The Lime Rock Railroad.

ROCKLAND, Nov. 2. Railroad Commissioners Wilkes and Mortland met here today agreeably to notice on petition of Lime Rock Railroad Co. to establish grade crossings at several streets which the road passes in connecting the lime quarries with the kilns in this city. The Commissioners approved the grade crossings and will determine others when the line of location is completed. The survey is finished and the ground will probably be broken this fall. The Commissioners will commence their semi-annual examination of the Knox and Lincoln Railroad tomorrow.

FROM WASHINGTON.

News About the Capital.

Religious Instruction to Indians.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2. A delegation headed by Ex-Justice Strong, representing the American Bible Society, Mohonk Conference, and several religious missionary societies, called upon the President to-day to urge on him a modification of the order of the Interior Department prohibiting the use of the Indian language in the Indian schools. The delegation states that the broad interpretation given the order practically puts an end to the religious instruction of the Indians. Several mission schools have been compelled to suspend work in consequence.

They represented 40,000 Indian children, of school age, of which 15,000 are pupils and 25,000 adult Indians, who cannot understand any language but their own. The delegation is in sympathy with the Government's efforts to teach the Indians English, but believed an exception should be made in religious instruction until the Indians understand English. The President's reply was entirely satisfactory. He said it was not intended that the order should be so libe ally construed as to forbid religious instruction in the Indian language, and the recent annual report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs made this clear.

A DEADLY CONFLICT

Growing out of a Singular Custom.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2. Following a custom in vogue among plantation negroes in portions of the South, two members of a congregation in West Feliciana parish exchanged wives two years ago. The bargain did not prove satisfactory and quarrels arose among the members of the much mixed families which gradually involved nearly the entire congregation. It was decided by the parties involved to meet at church and settle the difficulties by a general fist fight. A large number were present at the appointed time, but the conditions upon which the fight was arranged were not observed. Knives and pistols were used and a bloody riot followed. The two principals were killed outright and another probably fatally wounded.

JENNY LIND DEAD.

The Celebrated Swedish Singer No More.

LONDON, Nov. 2. Jenny Lind Goldschmidt, the celebrated Swedish singer, is dead at the age of 66. She has not appeared in public since 1868.

[An extended sketch of the celebrated singer was published in the WHIG Friday, October 28.—Ed. WHIG.]

A LONG LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Starts to be Married and Killed on the Train.

SALEM, Va., Nov. 2. The dead body of Past Assistant Surgeon George Arthur, United States Navy, was found last night near the Midland railroad track, and had evidently fallen from the train. He was granted a leave of absence from the first of November and started from Washington yesterday for Shelbyville, Tenn., to be married

OHIO.

Failure of a Capitalist.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 2. Joseph Smith, capitalist, assigned to-day. Assets quarter of a million, liabilities $200,000. The failure a traceable to the Fidelity Bank failure and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad trouble.

GILMORE AND TOMPKINS'

Purchase of the Academy of Music Causes Considerable Discussion.

The plans of Eugene Tompkins and E. G. Gilmore, who purchased the Academy of Music at New York Monday, were the subject of a good deal of discussion among theatrical people. It is understood that the purchase of the Academy was made with a view of running it in connection with the Boston Theatre. Its great stage adapts it for the kind of productions for which Mr. Tompkins is famous in Boston, and the plan is to alternate these specialties between Boston and New York. Mr. Tompkins is also the lessee of the Fifth Avenue Theatre from the first of May next, and with his partner as manager of Niblo's the two will control three large combination houses, and hope to have the choice of the combination business in this city in the future. The scheme is a far-reaching one, but with plenty of capital behind them, Messrs. Tompkins and Gilmore have every reason to anticipate a successful venture.

NEW YORK.

Verdict for Damages by a Collision.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. The United States Court Jury awarded Mrs. Nettie K. Stillman $2,300 against the Stonington and Providence Navigation Co., on account of injuries received June 10, 1880, when the Narragansett collided with the Stonington.

Funeral of the Late Prof. Chamberlain.

The funeral of the late Prof. William Mellen Chamberlain took place to-day at West Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. Paxton officiated. The remains were sent to Hanover, N. H., the birthplace of the deceased. Prof. Chamberlain was a well known medical specialist and has written many famous magazine articles on medical topics.

THE LAKE DISASTER.

Nineteen Bodies Washed Ashore.

MANITOWOC, Wis., Nov. 2. The bodies of seventeen men and two women, victims of the Vernon disaster, were found two miles north of here to-day. All the bodies were dressed. The remains of the two women looked like sisters. One of the bodies of the men was Captain George Thorpe, of the Vernon, who lived in Ogdensburg, N. Y., and another was C. B. Berlard, a travelling man from Milwaukee. The captain's watch stopped at five minutes before six.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Mother and Child Killed by a Train.

FITCHBURG, Nov. 2. Mrs. James Hoar and George, her five years old son, were struck on the River street bridge by the 1.35 P. M. train this afternoon and instantly killed.

THE DOOMED ANARCHISTS.

The Prayer for Writ of Error Denied.

The Condemned Men Receive the News Without Remark.

Preparations in Progress for the Execution.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2. The decision of the United States Supreme Court upon the petition for writ of error in the case of the Chicago Anarchists was announced this morning by Chief Justice Waite, in a long and carefully prepared opinion that occupied thirty-five minutes in reading.

The Court holds, in brief:

First—That the first ten amendments to the Constitution are limitations upon federal and not upon State action.

Second—That the jury law of Illinois is, upon its face, valid and constitutional, and that it is similar in its provisions to the statute of Utah, which was sustained in this Court, in the case of Haight vs. the Territory of Utah.

Third—That it does not appear on record that upon evidence at the trial the Court should have declared juror Sanford incompetent.

Fourth—That the objection to the admission of Johann Most's letter and the cross-examination of Spies, which counsel for the prisoners maintained, virtually compelled them to testify against themselves, were not objected to in the trial Court and that therefore no foundation was laid for an exercise of this Court's jurisdiction; and Fifth—That the questions raised by Gen. Butler in the cases of Spies and Fielden upon the basis of their foreign nationality were neither raised nor decided in the State Courts and therefore cannot be considered here. The writ of error prayed for must consequently be denied.

The Result Received Without Remark.

CHICAGO, Nov 2. The condemned Anarchists were all in their cells when the Supreme Court decision was received. Spies read the note sent by a reporter announcing the result, and remarked, "I have nothing to say." None of the other men would say anything. All is quiet around the jail. The denial of the writ was universally expected.

Preparations are Making for the Executions

The ropes are ordered from an eastern firm. An additional scaffold will be built. There are two scaffolds in the basement of the Criminal Court, but they will not accommodate over five. The new one is like the one on which three Italian murderers were hanged some time ago.

Letters by the score are arriving from journalists who desire to secure tickets. All will be disappointment. If the hanging takes place there will be only a few present. The sheriff will adhere strictly to the law. Our city papers, Press Associations, members of the jury and Attorneys will be allowed.

Within Fifteen Minutes

after the receipt of the decision eight or ten officers in citizens' clothes appeared at the jail. Visitors were rigidly debarred. There was a rush of people to the jail to see the prisoners. Friends bearing baskets of delicacies for the doomed men begged vainly for admission. The baskets were passed in but only the relatives gained an entrance. Every effort is making to Guard Against Suicide.

Mrs. Engell, Lingg's aunt, cousin, and an admirer, Mrs. Parsons and Spies' mother, two children and two brothers, soon appeared and were admitted. were in cheerful spirits, save Mrs. Lingg and Spies' mother. The moment the decision reached police headquarters all the detectives in the building suddenly disappeared, all under sealed instructions. "We won't be caught napping," was all the officials would say.

LOUISIANA.

A Troublesome Strike on Sugar Plantations.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2. Thirty-five colored hands on L. Lacoasnugus' sugar plantation, parish Terre Bonne, struck Friday for higher wages. Twenty-five white laborers remained. Mr. Lacoussugus began filling his force with whites. This morning four white laborers were shot from ambush by the strikers. Lacassugus has asked the Governor for troops. The strike now includes almost every plantation in southwest Louisiana. A number of ringleaders were arrested today

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

The Toronto Globe on Chamberlain.

TORONTO, Nov. 2. The Globe this morning reiterates the demand that Chamberlain be recalled. It says there is no "ought" or "should" in the case, it is "must." The British should understand their own interests are hugely at stake in the impending negotiations. Should the Commissioners fail to reach a settlement or the Senate make an agreement nothing is more certain than that war between Great Britain and the United States can be avoided only by Great Britain abandoning Canada in a way forever to disgrace the British name. The Globe further says should negotiations fail the President must enforce the retaliatory act. If so war will probably occur.

There is only one way to avoid the disgrace and danger. Chamberlain's insults to that class of American citizens whose loyalty rang true by the most terrible tests, when hundreds of thousands of sons of Irish mothers faced death in battle for the Republic, is the sole cause for the present embarrassment. Better that he undergo his deserts than that the peace of hundreds of millions of English speaking people be jeopardized in behalf of his dignity.

BASE BALL.

Annual Meeting of New England League.

BOSTON, Nov 2. At the annual meeting of the New England League to-night Manchester, Lowell, Portland, Lynn and Worcester were represented. Burnham, of Worcester, Spence, of Portland, and Murphy, of Lynn, were appointed a committee to revise the constitution. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Edward Cheney, Lowell; Vice President, Dr. S. H Riedel, Manchester; Secretary and Treasurer, E. F. Stevens. The championship pennant was awarded to the Lowells. The League favorably considered this application from the Brocktons for Admission.

JEFFERSON DAVIS

Said to be Dangerously Ill.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. The Herald's Macon, Ga., despatch says that there is considerable doubt as to whether Jefferson Davis will return to his home alive. His condition is extremely precarious. For several years he has been troubled with a serious affection at the heart, and the excitement of the last week has served to aggravate his ailment. Since Saturday he has been confined to his bed and a physician has been in daily attendance. The wound received in the Mexican war is also troubling him.

He rallies at times and questions those about him concerning the result of General Gordon's speeches in Ohio and the manner in which the people are disposed to receive his conciliatory utterances. Yesterday he felt improved and despite advice he entertained the young ladies of Wesleyan College. Mr. Davis was helped down stairs. When the reception was concluded he returned to his room completely exhausted. It is understood that his daughters, who are the guests of the city of Macon, have been summoned to their father's side. His end is expected at any moment.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The House Passes Another Railroad Bill.

CONCORD, Nov. 2. The House this afternoon defeated the amendment offered by Mr. Moore, of Nashua, to the Dover and Winnipiseogee Railroad extension bill, on the roll call, 133 to 148, and the bill then passed on division 145 to 117.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A despatch from from Delhi La., says: At Lamaria, Frank in parish, seven persons have died from the effects of poison which in some mysterious way got into their food at a dinner given by George King. Five others are dangerously ill. An investigation is being made.

John Hodel, a negro weaver living at Hebron, Conn., shot his wife Tuesday night and then set fire to the house. Two children were burned to death. Hodel fled but is now under arrest.

FROM HALIFAX.

A Reign of Terror from Robbers.

HALIFAX, Nov. 2. Residents of Musquodoabit Harbor, adjoining the district of Jeddore, are experiencing a reign of terror, caused by the depredations and outrages of a number of daring miscreants who attack travellers on the highway at night and came near murdering a well known physician. Night robberies, house breaking and burglaries of stores are a common occurrence. Four places in Jeddore were broken into one night and a large quantity of goods carried off. Many other robberies are reported.

BLAZE AT THE BEACH.

A Number of Cottages Burned at Nantasket—The Fire Thought to Be of Incendiary Origin.

One of the most disastrous fires for years visited Nantasket Beach Monday night. Shortly before 11 o'clock, Peter Peterson, a Swede, living in the cottage owned by Jotham Salisbury, of East Weymouth, situated at a point known as White Head, just north of Sagamore hill, discovered the house adjoining to be on fire. He immediately gave an alarm, and on rushing out found a one and a half story cottage and house and barn adjoining completely enveloped in flames. The burning house was occupied by the family of Christopher Johnson, a Swede, and was also owned by Salisbury.

Peterson quickly aroused Johnson and also the neighbors, who rushed to his assistance, but so quickly did the flames spread that Johnson's family, comprising his wife and four children, were rescued only with the greatest difficulty, the children being taken from the windows of their sleeping rooms with their clothing just catching fire. All were taken to the residence of Mrs. Murray, near by, and made comfortable. By this time, the horse in which the fire started was beyond saving, and a strong northerly wind had carried the flames to the large stable. From this they spread to the house in which Peterson and four other Swedes had been quartered, thence to the large two-story house owned by O. A. Labree, of Georgetown, Fla.

After these buildings had been consumed a smaller cottage, owned by D. M. Plummer, also caught fire and was destroyed. Hose 1 and hose 4 of the Hull fire department had arrived, in the meantime, and were making a hard fight to conquer the flames, but the strong wind was fanning the flames so fast that the department could accomplish but little, and it was only by the greatest exertions that the house of W. S. Bosworth, adjoining Labree's, was saved. The loss on Salisbury's house, in which the fire started will be about $2,000, and on the furniture fully $1,000. On his other house, which was an old one, the total loss will be about $1,000, including furniture. Labree's house was unoccupied, but was furnished, and the loss is thought to be $2,500. Salisbury's barn was valued at $1,000, and on Plummer's house, including furniture, the loss will exceed $1,200. The total loss foots up between $8,000 and $9,000.

It is impossible to ascertain the insurance at this writing, except on Plummer's property, which is insured for $200. The cause of the fire is a mystery, but appearances indicate that it was incendiary, as Salisbury's house, in which the fire was first discovered, apparently caught from the outside, either on or under the piazza. Nothing whatever was saved from any of the burned buildings, and Johnson's family saved only their night clothes, in which they were rescued from the house. They were kindly cared for at Mrs. Murray's, and supplied with clothing by neighbors. Chief Engineer Bradley of the fire department handled the fire with good effect, and, it was mainly through his efforts that the remaining houses in the locality were saved. Hose 1 was dragged by hand from Atlantic Hill, nearly two miles, by two men—L. J. Farrar and E. W. Bosworth—and the work of these gentlemen in rescuing the children from Johnson's house was very commendable.

AN AERONAUT'S FALL.

The Explosion of His Balloon Results in Serious Injuries.

Antonio Infantes, a Portuguese aeronaut, had a thrilling experience Sunday night at an exhibition of the fall of Pompeii, given at a suburban station on the West End Narrow Gauge Railroad, St. Louis. One of the features of the show was to be a balloon ascension with a trapeze performance by Infantes. The balloon ascended about 100 feet and then passed over the show grounds. When about a block from where the ascent was made it became unmanageable and tipped to one side and began falling at a rapid rate.

Infantes held to the bar, and would probably have made a safe descent but for an explosion which tore the bag. It was about thirty feet from the ground when the explosion occurred, and the unfortunate aeronaut fell on his back on a stake which protruded from the ground about twelve inches. Infantes was unconscious when the attaches of the show reached him, and was bleeding profusely from the nose and mouth. His injuries are serious, but not considered fatal. He says that the explosion was due to the fact that the balloon was not properly inflated.

THE FREIGHT TRAIN MYSTERY.

A Clue Which May Lead to the Discovery of Frank Harn's Murderer.

Evidence has been obtained that may lead to the solving of the carriage murder case. The little tuft of light hair which was found in the carriage on the car when Frank Harn's body was found is the connecting link that has led to a clue. Detective Lazarus, of Rochester, will not give for publication the name of the party from whom he expects valuable information, but he can place his hands on a man who is likely to know something about the mysterious death of Harn. He has proof that this man was with Harn in Pittsburg as late as 7 o'clock on the Sunday evening that the crime was committed.

Detective Lazarus said: "A man was seen with Harn in Pittsburg on the Sunday night he was killed, between 6 and 7 o'clock. This man came back to Rochester on the following Monday and said that Frank Harn had been arrested in Pittsburg and sent to the work house for sixty days. Investigation proved that there was no foundation for this story. The man admitted he was in Pittsburg on that Sunday. He is a light complexioned man whom I know well.

When the proper time comes I know where he is and expect to get information from him that will lead to the murderer being caught. My theory is that Harn was killed on the train while it was on the road, at some point between Allegheny, Rochester or Alliance. The dead man's uncle will telegraph me from Chicago tonight. If it is proven conclusively that the body is that of Frank Harn, then I will devote my time to working out the mystery. I think that I can solve it."

The Maine Central locomotives Nos. 77 and 62 which run into this city, have gone to the shops at Waterville where they will be repaired and put in the best order.

The schooner Cordova is being loaded with brick by W. S. Hellier & Co., and with about thirty-five tons of hay by G. L. Moor. She will probably sail to-day.

Saturday, Joseph Kelley, of Calais, a boy ten years old, escaped from the Reform School and so far has eluded the officers. There is a reward of $15 for his arrest.

Hon. F. M. Simpson and several citizens, of Carmel, went to Nicatous Lake yesterday on a hunting trip, and on their return a fall in the price of venison may be looked for owing to an overstocked market.

The schooner Electric Flash arrived in this port yesterday with 3,700 bushels of corn for A. H. Thaxter & Co. The Corinna M. also came yesterday with 350 barrels of lime for R. B. Dunning & Co.

Ward Seven is to have an Italian quarter this winter as twenty Italians, who have been at work on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, have hired a house on Fruit street and will go into bachelor quarters at once.

There are at present 560 patients in the Insane Hospital. Work on the new buildings is progressing rapidly and the brick walls are now up. The roofs are boarded in and the buildings protected from the weather.

James Walker & Co. have turned into the river between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 feet of logs, and they will be running by Great Works to-day to their mill. This will be Walker & Co's. last drive of the season.

Mr. Charles S. Pearl will sell at auction this forenoon at 11 o'clock, on the premises, the two story frame dwelling house, stable and carriage house owned and occupied by Mr. G. I. Brown and situated on Patten street.

The turnip crop this year seems to have been a large one, judging from the amount brought into the markets for sale. There are lots of them apparently of good quality and they are selling at present for fifty cents per barrel.

Rev. G. W. Hinckley, State Evangelist, formerly of this city, has commenced to accumulate a "Boys' Fund" to be used in caring for and educating neglected boys. He has recently received several donations to this fund, which now amounts to several hundred dollars.

Mr. A. W. Dudley has a sucking colt four months and twenty days old that weighs 680 pounds. The animal is of Norman breed. The father now weighs 1,600 and the mother 1,500 pounds. The colt was on exhibition at the Eastern Maine State Fair this fall.

The river in the vicinity of the lumber docks was quite thickly skimmed over with a covering of ice yesterday morning and this is the first time that this has happened thus far. It was very cold early yesterday morning and some persons were seen holding on to their ears.

The Pullman sleeping cars Courier and Beacon, which have been running between this city and St. John, have been withdrawn and sent to the Pullman car shops in Pullman, Ill., for a general renovating. The Garden City and Bangor are taking the places of the absent cars.

The steamer Henry Morrison has been sawed in two in the waist at Oakes' shipyard and the parts moved so that the addition of twenty feet may be put in. It is expected that the work of timbering out and putting in the lower deck will be completed by the last of next month.

Good progress on the dam at Chesuncook Lake is being made and it is probable that the work will be completed in about three weeks. The new dam at Ripogenus will be completed in about six weeks. About fifty men are at work on both dams and will not stop until the dams are finished.

Special order No. 37, Adjutant General's Office, dated Nov. 2, accepts the resignation of Captain Fred S. Palmer, of the Hamlin Guards, and special order No. 38, of same date, orders an election of captain on Monday evening, Nov. 7 at eight o'clock. Col. Victor Brett will preside at the election.

Some very good counterfeit silver dollars have been circulated in this city recently, and it is quite difficult to tell them from the real article, as they have a good ring and are but very little lighter than the genuine dollar. Close observation and comparison will show that they are slightly larger and thinner than the good dollars.

Dr. G. H. Bailey, of the State Cattle Commission, was in the city yesterday at the Bangor House, on his way to Palmyra, where he has been called to examine a case of glanders. The Commission has had very few cases of tuberculosis to attend to recently and it looks as though this disease had been about rooted out in this State.

Miss Jessie Couthoul, the celebrated recitationist, will make her first appearance in this city, assisted by the Apollo Quartette, at the First Baptist parlors on Monday evening next, commencing at 7.45 o'clock. Miss Couthoul is highly spoken of wherever she has appeared, and a fine evening's entertainment may be anticipated.

Mr. J. D. Rawles, of Skowhegan, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Rawles has two brothers, one of whom is settled in Skowhegan and the other in Belfast. Both were formerly in business in Michigan, but decided to come east, and they have been in Maine but a comparatively short time—one two years and the other six months. They state that they are much pleased with Maine, and that for business carries on a solid basis, and for plenty of it, give them the East as they see it at present. They think that there is no need of going West to get into business, if it is only sought in the right way.

United States Deputy Marshal B. F. Andrews, who was at the Penobscot Exchange Tuesday night, left yesterday for a trip to Aroostook county.

It is very dull at present in the port and there are very few arrivals. There are quite a number of coal vessels on the way with cargoes for our merchants, but they have been detained in various ports on the way by the headwinds which have prevailed lately. Most of the vessels now in the port are being loaded with lumber and a great deal of it is being taken away from here in this way.

There was a service for deaf mutes last evening at St. John's Episcopal Church at 7.30 o'clock. The service was read by the pastor, Rev. John McGaw Foster, and interpreted to the deaf mutes in attendance by Rev. John Chamberlain, of the Church Society of Deaf Mutes, of New York. Rev. Mr. Chamberlain, who is not a mute, delivered an address, and afterwards gave it in the sign language to the deaf mutes. The address was of much interest and was closely listened to during its delivery.

A TOOTHSOME DISPLAY. Mr. Frank McGuire, at his eating saloon on Exchange street, made a most splendid exhibition of the fruits of the rifle and gun yesterday. Two beautiful deer, flanked by smaller game, such as partridge, woodcock, ducks, etc., made a tempting array and attracted much attention. The deer were shot by Mr. McGuire and Mr. Andrew Finnegan, between Brandy Pond and Eagle Lake, in Hancock county, who returned with their trophies and received the congratulations of their friends late Tuesday evening.

We are glad to know that Mr. A. S. Sweet, Jr., of this city, has secured a position with a wealthy horseman of Los Angeles, California, at a large salary, for the well known horseman, Col. G. W. Dickey. The Colonel is thoroughly acquainted with horses and in his two years' residence in Bangor has made many warm friends, who will wish him good luck in his new home as he is surely a good man for any one owning valuable horses. He leaves here on Saturday next, via the Southern Pacific Route, for California.

LUMBERING OPERATIONS. D. F. Davis & Co. will enter upon some quite extensive lumbering operations this winter on the North Branch and will send about twenty horses and sixty men into the woods. Mr. Samuel White will do lumbering this winter on Pine Stream and will have about the same number of men and horses. Mr. Cornelius Murphy went into the woods yesterday with a crew of twelve men, to assist in the lumbering operations on Farrar Brook, Female Lake. He now has about fifty men at work there and is doing a large amount of cutting and yarding.

THE LADIES' AUXILIARY. The Ladies' Auxiliary Sewing Society meets this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. rooms at 2.30 o'clock. All who can come are urged to do so, as there are but twenty-eight days before the fair and there is much work to be done. Anyone having pieces of plush, velvet, satin or silk to give will find them gratefully received by the committees on fancy work. Messrs. Russ, Cobb & Co., wholesale dealers in worsted goods, have donated a box of pretty crocheted articles for the Ladies' Auxiliary Fair. These favors from Boston firms are very pleasant for the ladies to receive, as they show an interest in the object for which they are working.

ADVENT CHAPEL LECTURE. Another good sized audience heard Mrs. McKinstry deliver her lecture on Greece last evening at the Advent Chapel and it was interesting and well delivered. The five constituences of Greece were first considered and then the times of Philip of Macedon and Alexander were spoken of. The divisions of the latter's empire after his death, with incidents in the reign of the rulers of those divisions, and finally the overthrow of the last of these divisions in B. C. 30, by the Romans, were mentioned. Then followed the application of prophecy to these historical events. Mrs. McKinstry is a very fluent speaker and her lecture was attentively listened to. The subject of to-night's lecture is "Rome, from the founding of the city, B. C., 734 to A. D. 395."

FANCY GOODS AND ART OPENING. Miss Phœbe Palmer's art and fancy goods opening yesterday at her rooms on Main street was largely attended during the day, and the fine line of goods there displayed was much admired, while many good sales were made. Miss Palmer's stock contains many very handsome and fashionable articles and their arrangement is very tasteful. Among the prominent articles displayed are Japanese panels, fancy hand painted jars and bottles, different kinds of plaques, plush goods, fine handkerchiefs and neckties, friendship canes, dolls, gloves, etc. One very fine imported photograph with three different mouldings, all very elegant, is on exhibition. Different styles of mouldings and pictures are also to be found there.

ROUGH WEATHER. The schooner Lizzie B. Rich, of Bangor, Captain Rich, left Portsmouth Monday for Bangor with a cargo of guano. At ten o'clock that night there was a squall that carried away the foremast, which went through the deck when it fell, and the main topmast. A heavy sea was running at the time, and no steamer being in sight, the Captain engaged a schooner to tow his vessel to Richmond Island where there is a good harbor. Much difficulty was encountered in getting a hawser to the vessel, it requiring some three hours to do so. All the sails except the flying jib were saved. Captain Rich writes that he will have to make a general average of the cargo before settling the damages. As the vessel is not leaking, the owners in this city have sent the tug Howell to tow her to this city where she will receive the necessary repairs.

MAINE GENERAL HOSPITAL. The annual reports of the directors and officers of the Maine General Hospital, Portland, show a gratifying increase in the resources of this institution. The liberal bequest of Ex-Gov. Coburn has been received and the value of the hospital to the needy and suffering poor is more generally realized. During the past year nearly one-half of the service has been to free patients; the number of weeks relief that has been furnished to paying patients having been 1718 1-7, and to free patients, 1363 3-7. During the year, 487 patients have been treated at a total expense of $30,148.45, an average of $9.78 per week for each patient. But yet there is need of more room. Nearly one-half the time during the past year would-be patients could not be received at once because there were no beds for them. The advantages of this hospital are limited to no particular section of the State. During the past year the inmates numbered 65 from Portland, 355 from other parts of Maine, 39 from New Hampshire, and one or more from eleven different States or British provinces. The residences of the 420 patients from Maine were as follows: Androscoggin, 28; Aroostook, 7; Cumberland, 157; Franklin, 13; Hancock, 29; Kennebec, 25; Knox, 27; Lincoln, 8; Oxford, 17; Piscataquis, 5; Penobscot, 29; Sagadahoc, 11; Somerset, 15; Waldo, 13; Washington, 10; York, 30.

Mr. James B. Stetson, formerly clerk at the Penobscot Exchange in this city, now connected with the Fitchburg House, Fitchburg, Mass., has lately been joined in wedlock, and recently accompanied by his wife, has been visiting at his old home in Lincoln, Me. During last season Mr. Stetson was proprietor of the Lake Auburn Mineral Springs House. He has made many friends while in the hotel business.

FOUND DROWNED.

Sad Fate of a Young Man in Orono.

The many friends in this city of Hon. Samuel Libbey and family, of Orono, will deeply sympathize with them in the sad bereavement that has overtaken them in the sudden death of their son, J. Charles Libbey, a young men twenty-eight years of age. Mr. Libbey left his father's store Monday evening to attend an entertainment and went to the store quite early Tuesday morning and was not seen again until his body was found in the Stillwater stream just above the toll bridge. His hat found in the water near the shore led to the sad discovery. How he fell into the river is not known. The deceased was a very popular young man and in his business relations, being connected with his father's drug store, the management of which devolved upon him during Mr. Libbey's absence at Augusta, he won hosts of friends by his unvarying courtesy and genial manner. The sad event was a great shock to the community where the deceased was born and educated and many tender expressions of sympathy were conveyed to the sorrowing family.

COUNTESS NARONA.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

"As to his lordship's retired way of life, we have conversed on the subject with the consul and banker—the only two strangers who held any communication with him. He called once at the bank to obtain money on his letter of credit, and excused himself from accepting an invitation of visiting the banker at his private residence on the ground of delicate health. His lordship wrote to the consul to the same effect on sending his card to the consul, to excuse himself from personally returning that gentleman's visit to the palace. We have seen the letter, and we beg to offer the following copy of it. 'Many years passed in India have injured my constitution. I have ceased to go into society; the one occupation of my life now is the study of Oriental literature. The air of Italy is better for me than the air of England, or I never should have left home. Pray accept the apologies of a student and an invalid. The active part of my life is at an end.' The self seclusion of his lordship seems to us to be explained in these brief lines. We have not, however, on that account, spared our inquiries in other directions. Nothing to excite a suspicion of anything wrong has come to our knowledge.

"As to the departure of the lady's maid, we have seen the woman's receipt for her wages, in which it is expressly stated that she left Lady Montbarry's service because she disliked the continent and wished to get back to her own country. This is not an uncommon result of taking English servants to foreign parts. Lady Montbarry has informed us that she abstained from engaging another maid in consequence of the extreme dislike which his lordship expressed to having strangers in the house in the state of his health at that time.

"The disappearance of the courier Ferrari is, in itself, unquestionably a suspicious circumstance. Neither her ladyship nor the baron can explain it, and no investigation that we could make has thrown the smallest light on this event, or has justified us in associating it, either directly or indirectly, with the object of our inquiry. We have even gone the length of examining the portmanteau which Ferrari left behind him. It contains nothing but clothes and linen—no money, and not even a scrap of paper in the pockets of the clothes. The portmanteau remains in charge of the police.

"We have also found opportunities of speaking privately with the old woman who attends to the rooms occupied by her ladyship and the baron. She was recommended to fill this position by the keeper of the restaurant who has supplied the meals to the family throughout the period of their residence at the palace. Her character is most favorably spoken of. Unfortunately, her limited intelligence makes her of no value as a witness. We were patient and careful in questioning her, and we found her perfectly willing to answer us; but we could elicit nothing which is worth including in the present report.

"On the second day of our inquiries we had the honor of an interview with Lady Montbarry. Her ladyship looked miserably worn and ill, and seemed to be quite at a loss to understand what we wanted with her. Baron Rivar, who introduced us, explained the nature of our errand in Venice, and took pains to assure her that it was a purely formal duty on which we were engaged. Having satisfied her ladyship on this point, he discreetly left the room.

"The questions which we addressed to Lady Montbarry related mainly, of course, to his lordship's illness. The answers given with great nervousness of manner, but without the slightest appearance of reserve, informed us of the facts that follow:

"Lord Montbarry had been out of order for some time past—nervous and irritable. He first complained of having taken cold on Nov. 13, last; he passed a wakeful and feverish night, and remained in bed the next day. Her ladyship proposed sending for medical advice. He refused to allow her to do this, saying that he could quite easily be his own doctor in such a trifling matter as a cold. Some hot lemonade was made at his request, with a view to producing perspiration. Lady Montbarry's maid having left her at that time, the courier, Ferrari (then the only servant in the house) went out to buy the lemons. Her ladyship made the drink with her own hands. It was successful in producing the perspiration—and Lord Montbarry had some hours of sleep afterward. Later in the day, having need of Ferrari's services, Lady Montbarry rang for him. The bell was not answered. Baron Rivar searched for the man, in the palace and out of it, in vain. From that time forth, not a trace of Ferrari could be discovered. This happened on Nov. 14.

"On the night of the 15th, the feverish symptoms accompanying his lordship's cold returned. They were in part, perhaps, attributable to the annoyance and alarm occasioned by Ferrari's mysterious disappearance. It had been impossible to conceal the circumstance, as his lordship rang repeatedly for the courier, insisting that the man should relieve Lady Montbarry and the baron by taking their places during the night at his bedside.

"On the 15th (the day on which the old woman first came to do the housework), his lordship complained of a sore throat, and of a feeling of oppression on the chest. On this day, and again on the 16th her ladyship and the baron entreated him to see a doctor. He still refused. 'I don't want strange faces about me; my cold will run its course, in spite of the doctor'—that was his answer. On the 17th he was so much worse, that it was decided to send for medical help whether he liked it or not. Baron Rivar after inquiry at the consul's, secured the services of Dr. Brunó, well known as an eminent physician in Venice, with the additional recommendation of having resided in England, and having made himself acquainted with English forms of medical practice.

"Thus far, our account of his lordship's illness has been derived from statements made by Lady Montbarry. The narrative will now be most fitly continued in the language of the doctor's own report, herewith subjoined.

"'My medical diary informs me that I first saw the English lord, Montbarry, on Nov. 17. He was suffering from a sharp attack of bronchitis. Some precious time had been lost, through his obstinate objection to the presence of a medical man at his bedside. Generally speaking, he appeared to be in a delicate state of health. His nervous system was out of order—he was at once timid and contradictory. When I spoke to him in English he answered in Italian, and when I tried him in Italian he went back to English. It mattered little—the malady had already made such progress that he could only speak a few words at a time, and those in a whisper.

"'I at once applied the necessary remedies. Copies of my prescriptions (with translation into English) accompany the present statements and are left to speak for themselves.

"'For the next three days I was in constant attendance on my patient. He answered to their remedies employed—my recovery slowly, but decidedly. I could conscientiously assure Lady Montbarry that no danger was to be apprehended thus far. She was indeed a most devoted wife. I vainly endeavored to induce her to accept the services of a competent nurse; she would allow nobody to attend on her husband but herself. Night and day this estimable woman was at his bedside. In her brief intervals of repose her brother watched the sick man in her place. This brother was, I must say, very good company in the intervals when we had time for a little talk. He dabbled in chemistry down in the horrid under water vaults of the palace, and he wanted to show me some of his experiments. I have enough of chemistry in writing prescriptions, and I declined. He took it quite good humoredly.

"'I am straying away, from my subject. Let me return to the sick lord.

"'Up to the 20th, then, things went well enough. I was quite unprepared for the disastrous change that showed itself when I paid Lord Montbarry my morning visit on the 21st. He had relapsed, and seriously relapsed. Examining him to discover the cause, I found symptoms of pneumonia—that is to say, in unmedical language, inflammation of the substance of the lungs. He breathed with difficulty, and was only partially able to relieve himself by coughing. I made the strictest inquiries, and was assured that his medicine had been administered as carefully as usual, and that he had not been exposed to any changes of temperature. It was with great reluctance that I added to Lady Montbarry's distress; but I felt bound, when she suggested a consultation with another physician, to own that I too thought there was really need for it.

"'Her ladyship instructed me to spare no expense, and to get the best medical opinion in Italy. The best opinion was happily within our reach. The first and foremost of Italian physicians is Vosello of Padua. I sent a special messenger for the great man. He arrived on the evening of the 21st, and confirmed my opinion that pneumonia had set in, and that our patient's life was in danger. I told him what my treatment of the case had been, and he approved of it in every particular. He made some valuable suggestions; and at Lady Montbarry's express request he consented to defer his return to Padua until the following morning.

"'We both saw the patient at intervals in the course of the night. The disease, steadily advancing, set our utmost resistance at defiance. In the morning Doctor Vosello took his leave. "I can be of no further use," he said to me. "The man is past all help—and he ought to know it."

"'Later in the day I warned my lord, as gently as I could, that his time had come. I am informed that there are serious reasons for my stating what passed between us on this occasion, in detail, and without any reserve. I comply with the request.

"'Lord Montbarry received the intelligence of his approaching death with becoming composure, but with a certain doubt. He signed to me to put my ear to his mouth. He whispered, faintly, "Are you sure?" It was no time to deceive him; I said, "Positively sure." He waited a little, gasping for breath, and then he whispered again, "Feel under my pillow." I found under his pillow a letter, sealed and stamped, ready for the post. His next words were just audible and no more—"Post it yourself." I answered, of course, that I would do so—and I did post the letter with my own hand. I looked at the address. It was directed to a lady in London. The street I cannot remember. The name I can perfectly recall; it was an Italian name—"Mrs. Ferrari."

"'That night my lord nearly died of asphyxia. I got him through it for the time; and his eyes showed that he understood me when I told him, the next morning, that I had posted the letter. This was his last effort of consciousness. When I saw him again he was sunk in apathy. He lingered in a state of insensibility, supported by stimulants, until the 25th and died (unconscious to the last) on the evening of that day.

Penobscot County Grange.

Penobscot County Grange held their October session with Independent Grange, Bradford. The session opened at ten o'clock A. M., Worthy Master Gregory in the chair. The following welcome address was written and delivered by Miss E. M. Wilson:

Worthy Master and Patrons dear,
With happy hearts we greet you;
We welcome you with right good cheer,
We're surely glad to meet you.

Each day of note in ancient Rome,
Was called red letter day;
Your meetings here with us shall be
Our mile-stones by the way.—

Pointing to thoughts of friendship true,
To words of counsel spoken
To hearts—the seam lost to view—
To ties which never are broken.

Our faith should bid us still aspire
To higher aims and deeds;
Our hope should bear our spirits up,
Through even our sorest needs.

Our charity as broad should be
Toward every erring one,
As ocean wide, or depth of sea;—
Our own turn soon may come.

We'll till the soil, we'll reap the grain,
We'll dig earth's treasures out:
We'll work with hand, and will and brain,—
Contentment be our lot.

We'll bring no boast of power or fame
Within our hallowed walls;
Our Order's good, our highest aim,
Prompt action, varied calls.

And when at last our work is o'er,
We'll round the shining strand
In faith and hope and charity,
A bright, unbroken band.

Then Worthy Master and Patrons dear,
With happy hearts we greet you;
We welcome Sisters, Brothers, dear;
We joy again to meet you.

Worthy Master of Independent Grange, H. T. Williams, made an interesting report of his Grange. Ten Granges were represented.

Afternoon—Committee on programme for next meeting reported and it was accepted, after which Independent Grange introduced a first-class programme consisting of declamations, music, etc. The question of holding a County Grange Agricultural Fair was discussed.

At the conclusion of the day's proceedings a rising vote was passed to Independent Grange for their excellent accommodations and fine music by both Band and choir.

Sabin's Plan Successful.

THE MINNESOTA THRESHER COMPANY PURCHASES THE NORTHWESTERN CAR PLANT FOR $1,105,010.

STILLWATER, Minn., Oct. 27. The sale of the Northwestern Manufacturing and Car Company came off this afternoon at the Court House in Stillwater, and resulted in the purchase of the works by the Minnesota Thresher Company upon the "Sabin plan," for the sum of $1,105,010.75, there being only the Porter party bidding against the Thresher Company, which party dropped out after bidding $1,103,000. Among those present were James H. Bouve, President of the Boston National Bank; A. D. S. Bel, President of the Minnesota Thresher Company; General Stoddard, President of the Quinsigmond National Bank, of Worcester, Mass.; S. F. Bogg, Vice President of the Thresher Company, Watertown, N. Y.; W. H. Rhawn, President of the National Bank of the Republic, Philadelphia, and a heavy stockholder in the St. Paul and Duluth Railroad; Henry D. Lee, director of the Thresher Company and a prominent lawyer of Boston; David B. Dewey, President of the National Exchange Bank, of Chicago; H. H. Porter President of the Duluth and Iron Range Railroad, and a prominent capitalist of Chicago; Andrew Crawford, Western financial agent of Drexel, Morgan & Co.; Referee W. C. Williston, of Red Wing; Senator Sabin of Stillwater; D. E. Secombe, of Minneapolis; General Sanborn, Judge Flandrau, F. K. Cutcheon, F. M. Prince, and E. A. Kirk, of St. Paul; Senator Durant, Isaac Staples, Fayette March, J. C. O'Gorman, auditor of the Thresher Company, of Stillwater, and others.

At 11 A. M., when Referee W. C. Williston, of Red Wing, stepped out at the front door of the Court House to commence proceedings, a great concourse of Stillwater people were there, anxiously praying for the success of the thresher company, in which they saw the success of Senator Sabin. The referee commenced the reading of the order of the court. At the conclusion of this D. E. Secombe, of Minneapolis, the attorney for the Market National Bank of Boston, upon a claim for $40,000, served notice that he had some time ago commenced an act on for the vacation of the whole proceedings, whereby the car company suspended operations and secured the appointment of E. S. Brown as receiver; that by virtue of an action upon $27,000 of the claim he had and that he was about to commence proceedings in the Supreme Court for a mandamus, etc.

At the conclusion of Mr. Secombe's remarks the referee read his notice of the sale, and then called for bids, Mr. Crawford for the Porter side, and H. S. Hyde for the Thresher Company, each having deposited the required $100,000 with the referee, then proceeded to bid. Mr. Crawford started with $1,000,000. Mr. Hyde added $5,000; Mr. Crawford, $10,000; Hyde, $15,000; Crawford, $25,000; Hyde, $30,000; Crawford, $75,000, and then it ran $5,000 at a time until $1,100,000 was named by Hyde. Then Crawford added $3,000; Hyde made it $5,010; facetiously adding 75 cents. After waiting ten minutes or more to hear from Mr. Crawford, and getting no response the referee finally struck the plant off to Mr. Hyde.

As soon as this was done there was an anxious query started around among the throng of Still water people to know who the lucky man was, and whether he was for or against Mr. Sabin. In a moment the news spread that Mr. Sabin's man had got there, and three cheers for Sabin were instantly called for and sent up with a vehemence that seemed to make the Court House shake. Mr. Sabin was quietly standing in the crowd, just inside the Court House hall, and there was a general rush for him, which caused the Senator to smile and settle back against the wall in a modest way. It is quite likely that there will be something of a jollification in the city soon.

Referee Williston has five days in which to report the sale. The court may then, after thirty days, confirm the sale. The money must be paid upon confirmation of the sale. Until the money is paid and the sale confirmed, Receiver E. S. Brown will continue to operate the car works. It will require a payment by the Thresher Company of an amount to amount of cash as the claims against the car company, which they ask to turn in upon the payment are estimated as only worth about ten cents on the dollar, and they probably do not hold over $500,000 of claims.

Novelties for Christmas!
INSTRUCTION BY MAIL!!
China Decalcomanie taught by mail for $1.00. This work so closely resembles hand painting, that samples sent by me to the State Fair at Lewiston, received a prize as "hand painted China." Two French Transfer Designs, with instruction how to apply, sent by mail for 50 cents. These designs are very easily transferred to bolting cloth or ribbons. Address
